The 2007 / 2008 ski season has been a truly memorable one at Taos Ski Valley. Ask any longtime Taos local and they will tell you with a sparkle in their eye that they have never seen this much snow covering the mountain... ever! The skiing has been beyond fantastic all winter long. If this is what the climate change means to Taos Ski Valley, bring it on! With three weeks remaining in the ski season, there is no sign of the energy waning.

This weekend marks the official beginning of spring break and the last weeks of the ski season are packed full of activities. March 14-16 is the annual "Ski Turns to Art Show" in the TSV Resort Center. Even the die hard skiers in Taos know that Taos is so much more than a ski town. If you were not an artist when you came to Taos, eventually you will discover the artist within. This unique art show encourages all ski bums and TSV employees to display their hidden talents. You will be amazed at the talent lurking in the residents and visitors of Taos Ski Valley! On Saturday a mountain wide scavenger hunt will benefit the Rocky Mountain Youth Corps. (they're the ones who keep our hiking and biking trails in shape all summer long). Registration is at 9:00a.m. at Rhoda's Restaurant. The "center-ring" event on Sunday is Taos Ski Valley's almost famous Tele Fun Day. Telemark skiers will compete head to head for fun and prizes.

The St. Paddy's Day bash starts right after skiing on Monday (March 17) in the Martini Tree Bar. Local favorites "Vanilla Pop" will play starting at 7:00.

And then... (drum roll please) the day we've all been waiting for, a monumental day in the history of Taos Ski Valley, the day hell freezes over, Wednesday March 19, 2008... SNOWBOARDING COMES TO TAOS SKI VALLEY!!! Grab your boards and bring the kids to witness and participate in this moment in history. Taos Ski Valley, one of three remaining ski areas exclusively for skiers will welcome snow boarders to share the unique Taos experience. Rental equipment and lessons will be available for new comers to the sport. This marks the beginning of an era which is bound to bring new life and interest to this magical mountain playground. Winter will be hard to give up this year in Taos Ski Valley. Fortunately, we still have three weeks to go and we intend to savor every moment!
